2020 AWESOME SPONSORS

We encourage you to scroll through these pages and read the messages from our AWESOME Sponsors about their philosophy, values, and commitment to AWESOME and women’s leadership.

AWESOME deeply appreciates the generous support of this year’s sponsor companies. The leaders of these companies understand that the connections and collaborations that continue year-round among members of the AWESOME community are an impetus for action that will lead to positive change in our profession.

(The complete line-up of 2020 sponsors follows these messages.)
Equality is at the very heart of McDonald’s Values.

We’re committed to our people and we believe that individuals with diverse backgrounds and experiences, working together in an environment that fosters respect, are essential to the continued success of McDonald’s. Every day we acknowledge and honor extraordinary women everywhere. Through our Better Together Global Gender Balance and Diversity strategy, we are continuing on our journey to create an environment where the full diversity of women feel recognized, represented and championed.

Equality is essential for individuals, businesses, and communities to thrive; and a truly gender equal world, will be healthier, wealthier, and more harmonious. We know that when we level the playing field, women are inspired to become the people that our business needs to succeed. And by supporting ambitious men and women at every level of our business, we’re creating the visionary business leaders we need for the future.

At McDonald’s we aspire to be the best place for women to work, the best place for women to own and operate a franchise and the best supply chain for women owned businesses.

That aspiration is the vision and promise of our global diversity and inclusion strategy, “BETTER TOGETHER: Global Gender Balance & Diversity”.

REPRESENTATION
Aim for representation of women at every level in the business that is equal to – or better than – the representation of women in the external workforce.

RECOGNITION
Celebrate the voices and impact of women in the business and report on progress globally.

RISING
Enhance equality in career advancement for women and men.

REACH
Achieve progress on a global scale by encouraging franchisees and suppliers to deliver strategies that drive gender balance and improve diversity, with the goal of reaching millions of women worldwide.
I am proud McDonald’s is sponsoring the 2020 AWESOME Symposium. As a long-time AWESOME member, I am always inspired by the wisdom and insight shared by speakers that AWESOME brings to its members. Connecting with each other for support and to share ideas and best practices is more important than ever as we navigate unprecedented times.

In McDonald’s Supply Chain we have achieved our goal of gender balance (defined as 40% - 60%, men/women) at every level. Now, we’re focused on ‘inspiring and leading the transformation’ to ensure that gender balance is cemented in the fabric of our business.

McDonald’s celebrates diversity with many inclusion networks. The Global Women’s Leadership Network (GWLN) has a mission to recognize and raise awareness of the significant contributions that women are making to McDonald’s worldwide; and advance and facilitate a culture where women have the most opportunity to succeed and grow. As the Global Sponsor of this network, my primary purpose is to engage my peers around the world and influence decisions that help drive success for women at McDonald’s and ultimately – the business.

As a McDonald’s leader, I’m pleased that our company has provided a rich experience and development opportunities for women, letting us shine, lifting us up and giving the opportunity to have a seat at the table.

#BetterTogether

I can clearly recall the first time I attended the AWESOME Symposium. Seeing so many female executives gathered and sharing their leadership wisdom and experience was incredibly enlightening and motivating. Last year, I invited a supply chain colleague to attend and was thrilled to watch that same feeling of amazement in her as she experienced this event for the first time. The energy, collaboration and momentum of women in supply chain has never been greater, and the AWESOME community is truly leading the way.

When joining Ascend, I was excited to find a unique company that is serious about establishing and living by its core values. As a woman in leadership, I can bring my authentic self to work and accelerate transformation, both in business processes and talent development. In 2019, we launched a team to further our understanding and focus on diversity and inclusion. We celebrate our progress and continue striving to be an innovative leader in both our products and our culture.

One of the values we live by at Ascend is to be better every day. We are proud to support the inspirational dialogue and collaboration that make this event AWESOME.

Lynn Crear
Production Director
As a manufacturing leader at Ascend, I am inspired to be my authentic self. It is rewarding to use my talents to help create a culture that positively impacts our communities, employees and customers.

Nicole Hoke
Supply Chain Director
Ascend has given me opportunities to choose roles where I could start from scratch and learn something completely new. This has been a powerful thing for me. It has helped me gain a broader perspective, improved my decision making and made me a better leader.

Carole Wendt
Sr Vice President Global Procurement and Chief Procurement Officer
There are major differences between a job and a career. A job is a means to an end, but a career is a life journey that defines part of who you are. At Ascend, I’m fortunate to have a career I love with a company that inspires me to be better every day.

Reaching beyond to change the trajectory of health for humanity

At Johnson & Johnson, we are changing the trajectory of human health with open hearts, open minds and open arms, bringing together people of diverse backgrounds to solve problems big and small. Today, with the world facing a global pandemic, Johnson & Johnson has mobilized our brightest minds in innovative ways to help combat the global outbreak caused by the novel coronavirus.

Now, more than ever, diversity of thought, background and expertise is critical. Since day one, strong, smart, visionary women have brought a diverse perspective to the table. When our company was founded in 1886, eight of our 14 employees were women. By 1908, women were supervising nearly a quarter of all Johnson & Johnson departments, including the manufacturing areas for sterile surgical products, which at the time, was the most rigorous area of the company.

Since then, women have walked through our doors and built our business as scientists and technologists, managers and mentors, manufacturing leaders and global executives. Today, women make up more than half of our Supply Chain Leadership team. From the inside they help us hold the door open wider for the next generation — with initiatives and investments designed to empower employees, mobilize partners and enable women and girls around the world to achieve their goals and dreams.

"At Johnson & Johnson, women have long been at the center of solving some of the world’s greatest healthcare challenges—from making childbirth safer in the 19th century to fast-tracking an effective COVID-19 vaccine today. Partners like AWESOME help us take advocacy and empowerment even further. AWESOME showcases women in supply chain at the height of their career, as top-notch business leaders, showing the next generation of female talent there is a place for them to achieve more. And when our Johnson & Johnson Supply Chain leaders achieve more — more innovation, ideas, solutions and strategies — that not only has a business impact, it can change the trajectory of health for humanity."

Alex Gorsky, Chairman and CEO, Johnson & Johnson

"As the world is faced with the COVID-19 crisis, now more than ever, supply chains are front and center — leading the way and inspiring hope through these uncertain times. This is unlocking new opportunities for supply chain leaders to help rapidly respond to the global pandemic, while harnessing new levels of agility to get ahead of new customer needs. As the world’s largest, and most broadly based healthcare company, Johnson & Johnson understands the vital need for the brightest, most innovative minds to be at the forefront of these efforts. That is why we are proud to partner with AWESOME. Through facilitation and collaboration, AWESOME has set a strategic path that helps women reach beyond and achieve more as supply chain leaders to address the global challenges of tomorrow."

Supporting Both Men and Women
25 years ago, Johnson & Johnson launched its Women's Leadership & Inclusion employee resource group to connect and engage women across the company to develop their potential, build relationship capital and drive an inclusive environment and culture. Today, the company guarantees working parents, both men and women, eight weeks of paid leave following a child’s birth or adoption. Mothers in the U.S. who have given birth can take up to 17 weeks of paid leave, and up to a year of leave without pay. In addition to being named the #1 Company for Working Mothers in 2019, Working Mother magazine also included us on their 2019 Best Companies for Dads list, reinforcing our commitment to mothers and fathers at our Company.

Achieving more for the next generation
J&J's commitment is realized through hundreds of initiatives, coalitions and partnerships with organizations that share in our mission to foster growth of future leaders and empower them with the right resources. For example, in 2017, we launched our Global Pro Bono program, which pairs Johnson & Johnson employees with non-governmental organization partners to help build management capability and improve, strengthen and transform health systems. In every facet of our business we come together around advancing women's rights.

Fixing a leaky pipeline
With J&J's WiSTEM²D program — Women in Science, Technology, Engineering, Math, Manufacturing & Design — we are working to "fix the leaky pipeline" and reach women and girls at pivotal development stages in their lives: ages 5–18, at the university level and throughout their professional careers. With the help of key partners, the WiSTEM²D program is sparking enchantment in young girls globally, creating opportunity for university students and researchers and re-igniting females' technical careers. As of late 2019, the WiSTEM²D program has reached more than 6 million girls around the world through the help of our partners!

Achieving more in our communities worldwide
J&J supports and champions the role of women and girls as leaders in their communities. We've seen our philanthropic commitments turn dreams into platforms and initiatives that have changed the world. We are helping to cultivate leadership in women globally through the mentoring partnerships we've forged with Vital Voices and the U.S. State Department. Vital Voices is a network comprised of thousands of women leaders at the forefront of change and global progress from over 180 countries.

About Johnson & Johnson
At Johnson & Johnson, we believe good health is the foundation of vibrant lives, thriving communities and forward progress. That's why for more than 130 years, we have aimed to keep people well at every age and every stage of life. Today, as the world's largest and most broadly-based health care company, we are committed to using our reach and size for good. We strive to improve access and affordability, create healthier communities, and put healthy mind, body and environment within reach of everyone, everywhere. Every day, our more than 130,000 employees across the world are blending heart, science and ingenuity to profoundly change the trajectory of health for humanity.

Intel is a proud sponsor of AWESOME and vision for Women Leadership

Intel was founded in 1968 and our technology has been at the heart of computing breakthroughs ever since. More than 50 years later, we are a world leader in the design and manufacturing of essential technologies that power the cloud and an increasingly smart, connected world. Intel is transforming from a PC-centric company to a data-centric company, with workload-optimized solutions designed to help a broad set of customers process, move, and store ever-increasing amounts of data. This exponential growth of data is reshaping computing and expanding our opportunity.

Bob Swan,
Chief Executive Officer

We are investing to lead data-driven technology inflections that position us to play a bigger role in the success of our customers. These include: the rise of AI, the transformation of networks, the intelligent edge emerging with the Internet of Things, and autonomous driving. Intel’s ambitions have never been greater: to create world-changing technology that enriches the lives of every person on earth.

Our commitment to corporate responsibility and to creating an inclusive environment to support the talent of our amazing people supports our ambitions and makes us stronger. When every employee has a voice and a sense of belonging, Intel can be more innovative, agile, and competitive.

Sandra Rivera
Executive Vice President, Chief People Officer

“Tapping into the richness of our diverse workforce is key to driving future growth. Intel will continue to be transparent about our progress and our challenges, so we can partner with our customers and ecosystem to find better solutions together.”

Barbara Whye
Vice President, Chief Diversity and Inclusion Officer

“When transparency reveals areas for improvement, we must work together to understand the challenges and put forth specific actions to create a more inclusive industry. Overcoming systemic challenges will require accountability on all fronts and a fierce sense of urgency.”

Dr. Randhir Thakur
Corporate Vice President, Global Supply Chain

“Intel's Global Supply Chain team role models an inclusive culture that values diversity, upholds fairness, and fosters an environment of respect and belonging. We invest heavily in our supply chain talent who drive Intel’s leadership in supply chain excellence, sustainability and supplier diversity.”

$1B IN SPENDING
GOAL ACHIEVED. Increase our annual spending with diverse-owned suppliers to $1 billion by 2020. Also achieved our goal to spend $200M with women-owned businesses globally.

At Intel, inclusion starts with the first “hello.”

We create a sense of belonging for everyone.
We value the unique perspectives of every individual.
We are problem solvers, innovators and inventors.
We work to deliver excellence to our customers.
We are a global team and the face of the future.
We are creating a better tomorrow, today.

We are Intel.
We are here for you

Honeywell’s commitment to gender diversity starts with our leadership. We are proud to have four women on our Board of Directors, including two African American women. We hold our global leaders accountable for supporting diverse candidate slates at every level of the organization, not only for hiring but also for succession planning and leadership development program nominations.

We launched an innovative talent hub that leverages machine learning technology to help match people with opportunities within the company, giving all employees, including women, a better chance to advance their careers at Honeywell.

During the past two years, we’ve sponsored the Women’s Advancement Program to accelerate the development of talented mid-career women leaders. The program seeks to empower participants through workplace training and development opportunities, and each participant is paired with a senior leader who is expected to act as a sponsor and champion.

At Honeywell, we recognize that our success depends on creating a work environment where all employees can realize their full potential in a culture of respect and achievement. Honeywell’s commitment to a diverse workforce will help us achieve our mission to shape the future.

Honeywell values the substantial contributions by women throughout our global workforce.

The ADVANCE program focuses across four areas:

- Sponsorship: Provide sponsorship to practitioners to support their interests (e.g., career path or industry focus) and needs.
- Professional development: Provide practitioners with opportunities to develop business and leadership skills that foster inclusive work environments.
- Life events: Resources and tools to support practitioners before and after life events.
- Where you fit in: Leveraging our people’s diverse perspectives will help us grow our supply chain practice of the future.

Walk Her Walk

At Morton Salt, we don’t talk the talk, we Walk Her Walk. That’s why we’re proud to support AWESOME’s goal to transform and support women in leadership. And we’re also proud to recognize our bold, innovative and inspiring women leaders.
Unilever is one of the world’s leading suppliers of Beauty & Personal Care, Home Care, and Foods & Refreshment products with sales in over 190 countries and reaching 2.5 billion consumers a day. Unilever’s Sustainable Living Plan (USLP) underpins the company’s strategy and commits to helping more than a billion people take action to improve their health and well-being by 2020, halving the environmental impact of our products by 2030 and enhancing the livelihoods of millions of people by 2020.

Opportunities for women
We’ve achieved gender balance in management globally, with 51% women in managerial roles, up from 38% in 2010.

We’ve empowered 2.34 million women worldwide, supporting them to develop new skills and expand their opportunities.

And we’ve improved safety for women on tea plantations.
